

About the Book

We are over whelmed with the success of the First KLE College of Law National Law Fest "SPAKLE 2019" wherein we conducted many events and one of the events was a National Seminar on "Recent Trends in Development of Constitutional law In India"

This book is a collection of articles from various research scholars from across the country. The topics were contemporary issues of Constitutional Law. As all of us are aware that law is dynamic and dynamic changes are required to meet the demands of contemporary society.

This book with intense research by the scholars tries to find out the lacuna and provide the solution for the existing problem. We are very thankful to all the members of review committee for owing their time to review the articles.

The wheel of time started way back in July 2018, the efforts of the editorial team and the devoted time has made this book possible for publication. We have received in all 64 papers, after review and scrutiny 21 papers were selected for the publication. Being the editors of this book we have taken utmost care to come up with the publication of this book to add to the existing developmental research on constitutional law.

We are also thankful to various authors and resource persons for bringing about their innovative ideas to the table to add up to the existing literature. Their efforts are lauded with appreciation by KLE Society's KLE College of Law, Kalamboli, as a drop in ocean we think the book could be helpful to student's community and academican for development of the knowledge in given field.
